

AID DUE FOR A STUDY OF WARREN REPORT

William F. Buckley Jr., editor of the conservative fortnightly magazine National Review, said yesterday that a foundation of which he is an official is in the process of authorizing a $2,000 grant to study the adequacy of the Warren Commission's report on the assassination of President Kennedy.

Mr. Buckley said the organization was the Historical Research Foundation, set up by Alfred Kohlberg, a textile importer and China expert, who died April 7, 1960. The grant, he said, would support such an inquiry as that proposed—so far informally—by Richard N. Goodwin, former assistant special counsel to President Kennedy.

The commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone assassin of the President has come under fire from a number of critics.

Mr. Buckley said yesterday, "I think the presumptions are with the Warren Commission's report, but I think as a public matter for the sake of the public tranquillity" there should be a commission that is not partial to the report.
